Introduction

Below is an updated list of consumer reporting agencies (CRAs) — companies that collect information and provide reports on consumers that are used to decide whether to provide consumers credit, insurance, or employment, and for other purposes. The list includes both the biggest nationwide credit reporting companies and specialty reporting companies that focus on certain market areas and consumer segments. The list also gives you tips so you can determine which CRAs may be important to you, take the right steps to obtain and review your consumer reports, and leverage your rights under the law to ensure your data is accurate and complete.

CRAs provide consumer reports and scores to an array of business customers, including:

- Lenders (including those that offer credit cards, home loans, payday loans, auto loans)
- Employers (job and background screening)
- Landlords and residential real estate management companies (tenant screening)
- Banks, credit unions, payment processors and retail stores that accept personal checks (check screening)
- Companies that market and sell products and services to low income consumers and subprime credit applicants
- Debt buyers and collectors (e.g., medical debt collectors)
- Insurance companies (health, life, property insurance screening)
- Communications and utility companies (e.g., mobile phone; cable, electric, etc. for utility bill repayment screening)
- Retail stores for product return fraud and abuse screening; as well as retail stores that offer financing such as appliance and rent-to-own businesses, among others
- Gaming casinos that extend credit

1 This information is as of January 2015. This list includes entities that have identified themselves as consumer reporting companies, or have indicated when they provide consumers access to their consumer reports. The list incorporates information from the companies’ own self-descriptions that has not been independently verified by the CFPB. This list doesn’t cover every company in the industry. It is not intended by the CFPB to be all-inclusive. Nor does it reflect any determinations by the CFPB as to whether any particular entity is subject to the Fair Credit Reporting Act or any part thereof. Furthermore, presence on, or absence from, the list does not indicate whether the consumer reporting company is subject to the CFPB's supervisory or enforcement authority. To make corrections or additions to the list, contact the CFPB at info@consumerfinance.gov and include “Attn: Jonah Kaplan” in the subject line.
The list includes information about how you can obtain copies of your reports. Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA), all CRAs are required to give you a copy of your report if you request it. Many will do so every twelve months for free if you request it. Additionally, they must give you a free copy of your consumer report if an adverse action is taken against you based on information in your report from that company, and under other specific circumstances. All CRAs must provide you with a copy of your report for a reasonable fee (for calendar year 2015, the maximum allowable fee is $12.00). Keep in mind that not every CRA will have information on every consumer.

Most of the companies in this list provide reports for free. We tell you which do. To order your report from a company listed below, simply click on the company link we provide. Some companies have separate forms for requests by postal mail. We provide links to those forms for you too.

It’s important to fact-check your credit reports from the biggest nationwide CRAs every twelve months to ensure they are accurate, especially if you intend to purchase a home or car or otherwise intend to apply for credit in the future. If you are applying for a job, lease or insurance policy, fact-check specialty reports ahead of time to ensure there are no errors. Finally, if you have been a victim of identity theft, fact-check your reports.

If you find information in your consumer report that you believe is inaccurate or incomplete, you have the right under the FCRA to dispute the report’s content with the CRA and the company that furnished the data. Under the FCRA, companies must conduct – free of charge – a reasonable investigation of your dispute. The company that has provided the incorrect information is obligated to correct the error, and to notify all of the CRAs with whom it provided the inaccurate information, so they can update their reports with the correct information. No one can remove information that is current, accurate and negative. Beware of those who claim that they can. It is probably a credit repair scam.

You can learn more about disputing a reporting error on our website, and what to do if you see the same error in more than one report. You can also submit a complaint to us. We will forward your complaint to the company and work to get you a response. We handle consumer reporting complaints about report accuracy and completeness errors, and other consumer reporting topics, such as, if you are dissatisfied with a company’s investigation of an earlier dispute, if you believe your consumer report was used improperly, if you have problems getting access to your consumer reports, or if you are dissatisfied with consumer reporting products and services, such as credit monitoring and identity protection. Visit our website to see if a company listed below appears in our Consumer Complaint Database.
Nationwide credit reporting companies

Equifax, Experian and TransUnion

These are the three largest nationwide providers of consumer credit reports.

Their reports contain:

- Information about your payment history (submitted by credit card companies, home and auto lenders, and other creditors). Experian also reports some positive rent payment data, i.e., payments that are made as agreed between tenants and landlords. See Experian RentBureau below for more information).
- How much credit you have.
- How much credit you use.
- Information from debt buyers and collectors including medical debt.
- Public information, like bankruptcies, liens and judgments.

Free report:
Each of these companies will provide one free credit report every 12 months if you request it.

AnnualCreditReport.com will route you to any of the three nationwide CRAs you select. Before giving you a copy of your report, each of these three CRAs will ask you questions to verify your identity. These questions are designed to be those only you can answer.

If you run into difficulty getting your free Equifax, Experian or TranUnion annual credit report(s) from AnnualCreditReport.com or its toll-free phone number, try contacting the respective CRA(s) directly for help:

- Equifax, 800-525-6285 (Option 6)
- Experian, 888-397-3742 (Option 2 followed by Option 1)
- TransUnion, 800-680-7289 (Option 2)

<td>Collects rent payment history data from property owners and residential real estate managers, electronic rent payment services and collection companies, and makes that information available to the multifamily housing industry through tenant screening CRAs. Experian also includes some positive rent data it receives from ExperianRentBureau in its standard credit reports. Positive rent data refers to payments that are paid as agreed between tenants and landlords. It excludes derogatory rental data, i.e., delinquent and defaulted rent payment history, because debt collectors already report that data to credit reporting companies.
