- You are responsible for all transactions and charges on the account including those made by anyone you allow to use it.
- You and we agree to promptly notify each other if it is suspected that your account is being used without your consent. If unauthorized use occurs, you and we agree to work with law enforcement.
- We may decline any transaction and we will not have any liability if we do.

3 Types of transactions.

Purchases	You may make purchases of goods and services with your account. You may make such purchases up to the amount of your available credit limit.
Balance transfers	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • You may ask to transfer balances you owe to other credit card companies. You may ask for such balance transfers up to the amount of your credit limit available for balance transfers. • Balance transfers will be charged the balance transfer fee listed in the Schedule. This fee will be added to the Balance Category we select. • You may not transfer balances from other accounts you have with us or our related companies. • If you ask for a balance transfer and we do not approve the full amount, we may either pay only part of it or decline it. • Please consider the following when asking for a balance transfer: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> (a) To protect your rights, you should not transfer any amount that you dispute. (b) Continue to make all payments due on the other accounts until you receive notice from them that they have been paid in full. (c) You are still responsible for your other accounts according to their terms. (d) There is no interest-free (grace) period for balance transfers. • We may, at times, allow you to extend an outstanding Balance Transfer or Special Offer promotional period and APR on your account. Any extension will be treated as a balance transfer in the amount of the outstanding balance as of the last day of the original expiration date of the promotional period and APR. A balance transfer fee will be charged for each such extension.
Cash advances and cash equivalent transactions	You may ask for cash advances and cash equivalent transactions. You may ask for such transactions up to the amount of your credit limit available for cash advances. - We may limit the amount of credit available for balance transfers and cash advances. We may also raise or lower your credit limit at any time. You agree to not let your account balance exceed your credit limit.
- If your account balance exceeds your credit limit, you agree to immediately pay the amount needed to reduce the balance to your credit limit.
- To protect you and us from fraud, risk, loss, or unauthorized charges, we may limit or delay the availability of credit on your account.

5 Balance Categories.

We group transactions into one of four main Balance Categories listed below.

“Purchases”	These are from purchases of goods and services you make with your account.
“Balance Transfers”	These are from balance transfers you make with your account. Each balance transfer may be kept track of separately on your statement and may be treated as its own Balance Category.
“Cash Advances”	These are from cash advances and cash equivalent transactions you make with your account.
“Special Offers”	These are from your use of the account to take advantage of special, introductory, or promotional offers we make available to you at times. Each such transaction may be kept track of separately on your statement and may be treated as its own Balance Category.

6 What you will see on your statement.

- We will send you a statement for each billing cycle where you have a balance on your account.
- Billing cycles are mainly monthly periods of time. Each billing cycle will have about the same number of days. Your first billing cycle may be shorter or longer than your other billing cycles.
- Each statement will show:
 - (a) The statement closing date;
 - (b) The number of days in that billing cycle;
 - (c) New transactions, fees, and interest charges;
 - (d) The total outstanding balance (listed as the “New Balance”);
 - (e) The minimum payment due; and
 - (f) The payment due date.

Your payment due date for each statement will be the same day each month (for example, the 12th of every month).

- Please review each statement and notify us of any errors right away. If we do not receive timely notice from you of any possible errors, all statement information will be deemed accurate and your obligation to pay. Please see the “Billing Rights” section.

7 Making payments.

- You are responsible for paying back all the money we loan to you on the account. If this is a joint account, you are each responsible for the entire amount owed.
- You promise to pay all amounts due on your account including interest and fees.
- You may pay all or part of your account balance at any time. You must at least pay the minimum payment shown on each statement by its due date.
- The minimum payment listed on each statement will be calculated as listed in the Schedule.
- Payments must be made in U.S. dollars and through a U.S. bank. You agree to follow the payment requirements listed on each statement (for example, the time by when we need to receive payment and where your payment needs to be sent). If we accept a payment that is not in U.S. dollars or not through a U.S. bank, you agree to pay any extra fees or costs. We may accept payments that are marked “payment in full” or with similar markings without losing our right to receive payment in full. Partial payments offered in full satisfaction of a disputed amount must be sent to the address listed on your statement for notifying us of billing errors.
- Each payment you make will be generally applied to your account as follows: (a) the minimum payment amount will be applied to balances with the lowest APRs before balances with higher APRs; and (b) any amount you pay in excess of the minimum payment will be applied to balances with the highest APRs before balances with lower APRs. Until a payment clears, you may not be able to access the full amount of your credit limit.
- We will promptly apply other credits to your account. For example, such credits may include a credit for return of merchandise. These other credits will be applied to the Balance Category we select.

8 Interest rates (APRs) and how we calculate them.

Where to find them.	The APRs (and their daily periodic rates) in effect on your account are listed in the Schedule.
How we calculate variable APRs.	Each variable APR is determined by adding the margin to the Index as listed in the Schedule. An increase in the Index will increase a variable APR (and its daily periodic rate). An increase in a variable APR may increase the minimum payment due and interest charged on your account.
How we calculate daily periodic rates.	To determine the daily periodic rate for an APR, we divide the APR by 365 (366 in leap years).
Penalty rates.	We will not charge penalty rates or penalty APRs on your account. For example, if you make a late payment, your APR will not increase because you paid late.

9 Interest charges.

Interest charges.	Interest will be charged on your account based on the APRs and outstanding balances for each Balance Category. However, interest will not be charged on any outstanding balance that is subject to an interest-free (grace) period. Interest will be calculated separately for each Balance Category and will begin to accrue on the transaction date unless subject to an interest-free (grace) period.
Interest-free (grace) period.	To avoid being charged interest on new purchases, you must pay your entire statement balance (including all special offer, promotional, and introductory balances) by the due date each month. You will not be charged interest for new purchases if you (a) pay your entire outstanding balance (the "New Balance") listed on your current statement in full by its due date; and (b) paid your entire outstanding balance (the "New Balance") listed on your previous statement in full by its due date (or your previous statement had a zero or credit balance). This interest-free (grace) period applies only to purchases and does not apply to balance transfers, cash advances, or special offers.
Balance calculations and interest charges.	To determine interest charges on your account and the balances subject to interest, we use a method called "Average Daily Balance (including new purchases)". This method calculates balances for each Balance Category as listed below. A. We first calculate the outstanding ending balance for each day in a billing cycle for each Balance Category. 1. Start with the beginning balance. (This is the ending balance of the previous day plus an amount equal to the previous day's ending balance multiplied by the daily periodic rate for that Balance Category.) 2. Add new transactions and fees. 3. Subtract payments, credits, or credit adjustments. 4. Which equals the ending balance for that day. B. We next calculate the average daily balance for each Balance Category. To do that, we add all your daily ending balances for each Balance Category for a billing cycle and then divide it by the number of days in the billing cycle. C. We next multiply your average daily balance for each Balance Category by its daily periodic rate. After that, we multiply that result by the number of days in the billing cycle. This will be the interest charge for that Balance Category except for minor differences due to rounding. For purposes of these calculations, we treat credit balances as a zero balance. This Agreement results in the daily compounding of interest, finance charges, and fees.
How this information will appear on statements.	On your statement in the "Charge Summary" section, (a) the average daily balance for each Balance Category will be listed under the "Balance Subject to Interest Rate" column; and (b) the interest charges for each Balance Category will be listed under the "Interest Charge" column. All of the interest charges will be totaled on your statement and listed as the "Total Interest".
Minimum Interest Charge.	If your account is subject to interest charges in a billing cycle and those interest charges are less than the Minimum Interest Charge listed in the Schedule, you will be charged the Minimum Interest Charge. Under law, the Minimum Interest Charge is treated as a fee. If the Minimum Interest Charge is charged, all the below will apply: (a) It will appear under the "Fees" section of your statement. (b) We will add it to the Balance Category we select. (c) You will not be charged other interest charges for that statement.
Active duty military members.	IMPORTANT NOTICE REGARDING THE MILITARY LENDING ACT THAT ONLY APPLIES TO NEW ACCOUNTS OPENED AFTER OCTOBER 2, 2017. Federal law provides important protections to members of the armed forces and their dependents relating to extensions of consumer credit. In general, the cost of consumer credit to a member of the armed forces and his or her dependent may not exceed an annual percentage rate of 36 percent. This rate must include, as applicable to the credit transaction or account: The costs associated with credit insurance premiums; fees for ancillary products sold in connection with the credit transaction; any application fee charged (other than certain application fees for specified credit transactions or accounts); and any participation fee charged (other than certain participation fees for a credit card account). The amount of this fee is listed in the Schedule. This fee will be determined after the transaction is converted to U.S. dollars.
Late fee	We may charge a late fee for every minimum payment we do not receive by its due date. The maximum amount of the late fee is listed in the Schedule. The amount of this fee depends on your account balance and how many other times a payment was late in the last 6 billing cycles.
Returned payment fee (payment dishonored fee)	We may charge a returned payment fee for every payment which is not honored, is returned unpaid, or cannot be processed. Those regulations currently provide that the conversion rate may be either (1) a wholesale market rate; or (2) a government-mandated rate. Visa® and Mastercard® currently use the rate in effect on the date they process your transaction. The Visa®/Plus® ATM Network currently uses the rate in effect on the transaction date. The currency conversion rate in effect on the date your transaction is processed may differ from the rate in effect on the transaction date or the posting date.

12 Checks and other devices.

- We may send you checks or other devices to use with your account. You may not use these checks or other devices to make payments on this or any other account you have with us.
- Each check or device you use will be treated as a cash advance and charged the cash advance fee (unless we tell you otherwise).
- You may ask us to stop payment on any check or device you use. We must receive your request before the check or device is presented to us. Even if you ask us to stop payment, we may still not stop the payment. If you ask us to stop payment, we may charge a stop payment fee.

If we do any of those things, each may be done without providing you notice before it happens. You must still fulfill all your duties under the Agreement (including payment of all balances on your account).

15 Changes to your account terms.

We may change the terms of your account and this Agreement if the law allows us. This may include changes to your APRs, fees, and all other terms. We will inform you of any changes and also give you an opportunity to reject them as required by law. This notice tells you about your rights and our responsibilities under the Fair Credit Billing Act.

What To Do If You Find a Mistake on Your Statement

If you think there is an error on your statement, write to us at:

First National Bank of Omaha
P.O. Box 3696
Omaha, NE 68103-0696

In your letter, give us the following information:

- Account information: Your name and account number.
- Dollar amount: The dollar amount of the suspected error.
- Description of problem: If you think there is an error on your bill, describe what you believe is wrong and why you believe it is a mistake.

You must contact us:

- Within 60 days after we send you the first statement on which the error or problem appeared.
- At least 3 business days before an automated payment is scheduled, if you want to stop payment on the amount you think is wrong.

You must notify us of any potential errors in writing. You may call us, but if you do we are not required to investigate any potential errors and you may have to pay the amount in question.

What Will Happen After We Receive Your Letter

When we receive your letter, we must do two things:

1. Within 30 days of receiving your letter, we must tell you that we received your letter. We will also tell you if we have already corrected the error.
2. Within 90 days of receiving your letter, we must either correct the error or explain to you why we believe the bill is correct.

While we investigate whether or not there has been an error:

- We cannot try to collect the amount in question, or report you as delinquent on that amount.
- The charge in question may remain on your statement, and we may continue to charge you interest on that amount.
- While you do not have to pay the amount in question, you are responsible for the remainder of your balance.
- We can apply any unpaid amount against your credit limit.

After we finish our investigation, one of two things will happen:

- If we made a mistake: You will not have to pay the amount in question or any interest or other fees related to that amount.
- If we do not believe there was a mistake: You will have to pay the amount in question, along with applicable interest and fees. We will send you a statement of the amount you owe and the date payment is due. We may then report you as delinquent if you do not pay the amount we think you owe.

If you receive our explanation but still believe your bill is wrong, you must write to us within 10 days telling us that you still refuse to pay. If you do so, we cannot report you as delinquent without also reporting that you are questioning your bill. We must tell you the name of anyone to whom we reported you as delinquent, and we must let those organizations know when the matter has been settled between us.

If we do not follow all of the rules above, you do not have to pay the first $50 of the amount you question even if your bill is correct.

Your Rights If You Are Dissatisfied With Your Credit Card Purchases

If you are dissatisfied with the goods or services that you have purchased with your credit card, and you have tried in good faith to correct the problem with the merchant, you may have the right not to pay the remaining amount due on the purchase.

To use this right, all of the following must be true:

1. The purchase must have been made in your home state or within 100 miles of your current mailing address, and the purchase price must have been more than $50.
(Note: Neither of these are necessary if your purchase was based on an advertisement we mailed to you, or if we own the company that sold you the goods or services.)
2. You must have used your credit card for the purchase. Purchases made with cash advances from an ATM or with a check that accesses your credit card account do not qualify.
3. You must not yet have fully paid for the purchase.

If all of the criteria above are met and you are still dissatisfied with the purchase, contact us in writing at:

First National Bank of Omaha
P.O. Box 3696
Omaha, NE 68103-0696

While we investigate, the same rules apply to the disputed amount as discussed above. After we finish our investigation, we will tell you our decision. At that point, if we think you owe an amount and you do not pay, we may report you as delinquent.

20 Liability for unauthorized use.

If you notice the loss or theft of your credit card or a possible unauthorized use of your card, you should write to us immediately at or call us at 1-800-688-7070. You will not be liable for any unauthorized use that occurs after you notify us. You may, however, be liable for unauthorized use that occurs before your notice to us. In any case, your liability will not exceed $50.

P.O. Box 3696

How We Will Calculate Your Balance: We use a method called "average daily balance (including new purchases)". See your Cardmember Agreement for more details.

Index And When It Is Determined: We use the U.S. Prime Rate as published in the "Money Rates" section of The Wall Street Journal on the last day the rate is published in each calendar month (the determination date). The Index will be effective for the entire billing cycle that ends in the second month after the determination date. For example, if your billing cycle ends in July, we will use the Index determined on the last day the rate is published in The Wall Street Journal in May.

APR for Purchases and Balance Transfers: To determine the variable APR for purchases and balance transfers, we add a margin of 6.74% to 22.49% to the Index (Prime Rate).

APR for Cash Advances: To determine the variable APR for cash advances, we add a margin of 17.74% to 22.49% to the Index (Prime Rate).
