RESPONDENTS’ MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION OF THE DIRECTOR’S DENIAL OF RESPONDENTS’ MOTION TO STAY APPEAL AND REMAND TO HEARING OFFICER

Respondents Integrity Advance, LLC and James R. Carnes (together, “Respondents”), respectfully request that the Director reconsider his decision denying Respondents’ Motion to Stay Appeal and Remand to Hearing Officer (Dkt. 179) the ongoing appeal in this matter. Dkt. 180. Respondents respectfully request an expedited review and decision on this matter, given the parties’ briefing schedules on appeal and impending deadline for Opening Briefs, which are now due on November 4, 2016. Id. at 3.

ARGUMENT

The Director should reconsider his denial of a stay in this matter pending resolution of the crucial threshold questions regarding statutes of limitation addressed in the D.C. Circuit’s recent opinion in PHH Corp. v. CFPB, No. 15-1177, 2016 WL 5898801 (D.C. Cir. Oct. 11, 2016). At a minimum, a stay of these proceedings is warranted until November 25, 2016, which is when any petition for panel rehearing en banc in PHH is due. See Fed. R. App. P. 40(a)(1)(B) (a petition for panel rehearing is due “within 45 days after entry of judgment”). At that time, the scope of any appeal by the Bureau will be more readily apparent. A brief stay would, therefore, allow all parties here to proceed in the most efficient and fully-informed manner.

The balance of the equities favors a stay in this matter.¹ Respondents acknowledge the Director's concern that the statute of limitations question addressed in PHH would take additional time to resolve should the Bureau seek further appellate review of that issue. On balance, however, this concern is outweighed by the waste of agency resources and Respondents' resources to continue litigating the precise issue already on appeal and which is dispositive on nearly all of the Bureau's claims here. To proceed when such a threshold issue is – at best – unsettled runs contrary to the principles of fairness and economy. Therefore, reconsideration is appropriate for several reasons.²

¹ Courts have frequently granted stays in the analogous situation where a district court is asked to “weigh competing interests and maintain an even balance” in determining whether to stay proceedings pending the resolution of independent proceedings in which the same legal questions or defenses are presented. See, e.g. Fairview Hosp. v. Leavitt, 2007 WL 1521233, at *1-2 (D.D.C. May 22, 2007) (granting a stay where, on balance, it would “promote efficiency and conserve party and judicial resources” and where the “legal defenses are nearly identical in both cases”) (citing Landis v. N. Am. Co., 229 U.S. 248, 254 (1936)); IBT/HERE Employee Representatives' Council v. Gate Gourmet Div. Americas, 402 F. Supp. 2d 289, 292-93 (D.D.C. 2005) (stating that “litigating essentially the same issues in two separate forums is not in the interest of judicial economy or in the parties' best interests”); Marsh v. Johnson, 263 F. Supp. 2d 49, 52 (D.D.C. 2003) (noting that “courts have broad discretion to stay all proceedings in an action pending the resolution of independent proceedings elsewhere.”).

² Respondents respectfully disagree with the Director's assertion that Respondents failed to satisfy the requirements of Rule 205(f) of the Bureau's Rules of Practice for Adjudicative Proceedings, 12 C.F.R. § 1081.205(f), by stating, albeit in a footnote, that Respondents met and conferred with Enforcement Counsel before filing Respondents' Motion to Stay Appeal and Remand to Hearing Officer. See Order, Dkt. 180 at 1–2. This is especially true, given the parties' practices regarding meet and confer obligations in this matter. Nonetheless, out of an abundance of caution, Respondents have appended to this Motion a certification attesting that Respondents satisfied the requirements of Rule 205(f) for this Motion and also for Respondents' Motion to Stay Appeal and Remand to Hearing Officer. See infra pp.8–9.

First, at a minimum, a limited stay of this matter until the Bureau's November 25, 2016 deadline in PHH for submitting a petition for rehearing en banc will provide the parties with additional clarity and allow for the most efficient resolution of this threshold question in light of the panel opinion in PHH. In the event of an appeal of the issue of whether statutes of limitation apply to CFPB administrative proceedings, the D.C. Circuit en banc, or the Supreme Court will be deciding an issue that has a precise and direct impact on the outcome of this matter. The D.C. Circuit's panel opinion clearly states that the "Dodd-Frank Act incorporates the statutes of limitations in the underlying statutes enforced by the CFPB in administrative proceedings." PHH, 2016 WL 5898801, at *5. Absent a stay of this matter pending the Bureau's potential appeal of the statute of limitations question, it is possible – maybe, even likely – that the Director will issue his final decision in this matter consistent with his previous decision in PHH on the statute of limitations issue, notwithstanding the D.C. Circuit's decision. See Order, Dkt. 180 at 2 (stating that the Director will address the impact on this matter of PHH "once that decision is finalized").³

Second, absent a stay, Integrity Advance will have to unnecessarily expend substantial resources to continue to litigate the entire case, including the statute of limitations issue, when the D.C. Circuit has already issued a decision on this question. Indeed, in PHH, the D.C. Circuit ruled it was appropriate to stay the Director's decision pending appellate review, including review of the statute of limitations issue, implicitly recognizing the importance of avoiding harm while resolving critical questions. See PHH, August 3, 2015 Order at 1 (granting PHH's motion to stay and holding that PHH satisfied the “stringent requirements” for a stay, including a showing of irreparable harm absent a stay). It is manifestly unfair for the Director to continue this matter now, in light of the unequivocal decision by the D.C. Circuit, in hopes that the Bureau prevails before the D.C. Circuit en banc or the United States Supreme Court.

Third, a stay is warranted because the D.C. Circuit’s opinion in PHH directly impacts the threshold question of whether nearly all of the Bureau’s claims are time-barred.⁴ As to the Bureau’s claims under TILA and EFTA, which carry a one-year limitations period,⁵ the record below makes clear that Enforcement Counsel did not file its Notice of Charges (“Notice”) until nearly three years after Integrity Advance originated its final loan. See Recommended Decision, Dkt. 176 at 14. Respondents therefore maintain that the statutes of limitation had run and that the Bureau did not timely file its Notice as to its TILA and EFTA claims. Indeed, Enforcement Counsel has never argued that anything other than a one-year limitations period would apply but for the Director’s decision in PHH. Therefore, it is undisputed that if the D.C. Circuit’s panel opinion in PHH is applied here, the Bureau’s TILA and EFTA claims are time-barred. It is therefore reasonable to stay this matter now pending further appellate resolution of the statute of limitations question in PHH.

With respect to the statute of limitations for the Bureau's UDAAP claims, 12 U.S.C. § 5564(g)(1), Respondents have raised substantial questions about when this three-year limitations period began to run, particularly as to Mr. Carnes. See, e.g., Brief in Support of Respondents' Motion to Dismiss the Notice of Charges, Dkt. 28-A at 18–19. Under this limitation period, the agency must bring an action within three years of when it discovers, or by reasonable diligence could have discovered, the basis of the action. See id. at 16–19 (citing Merck & Co. v. Reynolds, 559 U.S. 633, 645 (2010) and Gabelli v. SEC, 133 S. Ct. 1216, 1221 (2013)).

Fourth, the hearing officer is best situated to further develop the administrative record, particularly as to the factual question of “date of discovery,” notwithstanding the Director's authority to engage in de novo review of the matter on appeal from a Recommended Decision by the hearing officer. See 5 U.S.C. § 557 (providing that the hearing officer should “initially decide the case”); see also 12 U.S.C. § 5563. Fairness justifies this approach, as the law is clear that the hearing officer “serves as the ultimate guarantee of fair and meaningful proceedings in our constitutional regime.” See Marshall v. Jerrico, Inc., 446 U.S. 238, 250 (1980). Further, remand would avoid placing the Director in the position to concurrently act as both the “trial court” and the appellate body. This is especially true here, where the factual issue to be further developed involves determining when the Bureau knew or should have known of the basis of the allegedly unlawful conduct. It would be grossly unfair for the Director to sit in judgment over questions involving his own actions and knowledge. Indeed, as the Bureau's own Enforcement Policies and Procedures Manual requires, the Director himself decides whether to authorize administrative actions. See CFPB Enforcement Policies and Procedures Manual at 2-6, available at https://www.venable.com/files/upload/CFPB_Enforcement_Policies_and_Procedures_Manual.pdf.

CONCLUSION

The Director should reconsider his decision denying a stay and remand in this matter. Staying this case now will avoid the unnecessary expenditure of resources appealing the exact statute of limitations issue addressed in PHH. Moreover, resolution of the statute of limitations question in PHH will directly impact nearly all of the Bureau's claims. Respondents acknowledge the Director's authority to review this matter de novo, but the hearing officer is nonetheless better suited in this instance to further develop the factual record with which he is already familiar. To the extent the Director is not inclined to remand the matter to the hearing officer, Respondents maintain that a stay of this matter is still necessary and appropriate to avoid manifest unfairness and waste of resources.
