A recent study* by Urban Institute concludes that the financial impact of natural disasters is:

- Immediate and long-term, with severity often growing over time
- Harmful to credit scores, debt burden, bankruptcy, mortgage delinquency, and foreclosure
- Particularly severe for people experiencing financial fragility even before a disaster
- More challenging for people afflicted by medium-size disasters compared to large disasters

Many U.S. households are financially fragile, even before a disaster strikes.

Fewer than half have an adequate emergency fund

Many U.S. households are financially fragile, even before a disaster strikes.

More than 4 in 10 engage in expensive credit card behavior

Burdensome debt is an everyday fact of life for many

When disasters strike, financial fraud is especially prevalent. Since 2005, the National Center for Disaster Fraud has received over 95,000 fraud complaints.
Following a disaster, financial fraud is often the next storm on the horizon. It’s critical to help consumers identify and counter the persuasion tactics favored by fraud criminals.

FEMA Mission: Helping people before, during, and after disasters.

FEMA Vision: A prepared and resilient Nation.

I. BUILD A CULTURE OF PREPAREDNESS
   1.1 Incentivize investments that reduce risk, including pre-disaster mitigation, and reduce disaster costs at all levels
   1.2 Close the insurance gap
   1.3 Help people prepare for disasters
   1.4 Better learn from past disasters, improve continuously, and innovate

II. READY THE NATION FOR CATASTROPHIC DISASTERS
   2.1 Organize the “BEST” (Build, Empower, Sustain, and Train) scalable and capable incident workforce
   2.2 Enhance intergovernmental coordination through FEMA Integration Teams
   2.3 Posture FEMA and the whole community to provide life-saving and life-sustaining commodities, equipment, and personnel from all available sources
   2.4 Improve continuity and resilient communications capabilities

III. REDUCE THE COMPLEXITY OF FEMA
   3.1 Streamline the disaster survivor and grantee experience
   3.2 Mature the National Disaster Recovery Framework
   3.3 Develop innovative systems and business processes that enable FEMA’s employees to rapidly and effectively deliver the agency’s mission
   3.4 Strengthen grants management, increase transparency, and improve data analytics

Start Small, Save Up

An Initiative of the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau
Why Start Small, Save Up?

Thirty nine percent of American adults would not cover a $400 emergency expense out of their own liquid savings.

- Twelve percent said they could not cover the $400 expense at all.
- Twenty seven percent said they would cover it by selling something or borrowing money.

Why Start Small, Save Up?

- Savings is critical to a person’s financial well-being.
- A lack of short-term savings causes financial stress and can result in significant financial hardship when the unexpected happens.
- Without a liquid savings cushion, people are less able to save for education, homeownership, retirement, and other long-term goals.
Start Small, Save Up seeks to increase people’s financial well-being through education, partnerships, research, and policy or regulatory improvements that increase people's opportunities to save and empower them to realize their personal savings goals.
Start Small, Save Up Audience Focus

Start Small, Save Up will initially focus its efforts on people who have experienced a financial shock in the last 12 months, and who

- Have a reasonable ability to save
- Are reachable through multiple channels available to the Bureau
- Are receptive to messages about savings

In future years, work is envisioned to support two additional audiences (1) people actively working to overcome debt, and (2) people anticipating a pivotal life event.
The Start Small, Save Up campaign plan includes four primary strategies:

1. Increase access to conventional savings products and services that facilitate liquid savings
2. Increase supply of automated savings options and awareness of how to use those options to facilitate savings
3. Increase consumer capacity to save within existing income constraints
4. Increase reliable information available to consumers about available saving options
