Home Mortgage Disclosure (Regulation C) Data Points and Coverage

AGENCY: Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection.

ACTION: Advance notice of proposed rulemaking; extension of comment period.

SUMMARY: On May 8, 2019, the Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection (Bureau) published in the Federal Register an Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (ANPR) soliciting comments relating to the data points the Bureau’s October 2015 final rule implementing the Home Mortgage Disclosure Act (HMDA) added to Regulation C or revised to require additional information. The ANPR also solicits comments relating to the requirement that institutions report certain business- or commercial-purpose transactions under Regulation C. The ANPR provided a 60-day comment period that will end on July 8, 2019. To allow interested persons more time to consider and submit their responses, the Bureau has determined that an extension of the comment period until October 15, 2019 is appropriate.

DATES: The comment period for the ANPR published May 8, 2019, at 84 FR 20049, is extended. Responses must now be received on or before October 15, 2019.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

On May 2, 2019, the Bureau issued the ANPR. The ANPR was published in the Federal Register on May 8, 2019. The ANPR seeks comment, data, and information from the public relating to whether to make changes to the data points the Bureau’s October 2015 final rule implementing HMDA added to Regulation C or revised to require additional information. The ANPR also seeks comment, data, and information from the public relating to the requirement that institutions report certain business- or commercial-purpose transactions under Regulation C.

The comment period for the ANPR was set to close on July 8, 2019. The Bureau has received multiple written requests asking that the Bureau extend the comment period. The requests indicated that additional time would enable interested parties to more thoroughly consider and respond to the questions presented in the ANPR. For example, a group of three industry trade associations asked that the Bureau extend the comment period from 60 to 90 days so that, among other things, they would have sufficient time to survey their members about the questions presented in the ANPR. A group of 18 consumer advocacy and other non-profit organizations asked that the Bureau reissue the ANPR and allow for a new 90-day comment period after the release of the national loan level dataset for the data collected by financial institutions in 2018 and the Bureau’s annual overview of residential mortgage lending based on that data (collectively, the 2018 HMDA Data). These organizations noted that 2018 was the first year that HMDA and Regulation C have required institutions to collect and report the data points that are the subject of the ANPR.

The Bureau has balanced interested parties’ desire to have additional time to consider the issues raised in the ANPR, gather data, and prepare their responses, with the need to proceed expeditiously to consider comments and determine whether to issue a proposed rule. The Bureau expects the 2018 HMDA Data to be released in late summer. In light of these factors, the Bureau believes that an extension of the ANPR comment period to October 15, 2019 is appropriate and will allow interested parties adequate time to consider the 2018 HMDA Data before submitting their comments on the ANPR. The Bureau does not, however, believe it is necessary or appropriate to reissue the ANPR with a new 90-day comment period. The ANPR comment period will now close October 15, 2019.

Dated: June 24, 2019.
