

Reviewing your credit reports

Look through your credit reports carefully to make sure all the information is correct.

Errors on your credit reports can negatively affect your credit scores and ability to get a loan. Reviewing your reports on a regular basis can also help you monitor for things like identity theft and fraud.

Sometimes your information isn't reported to all three nationwide credit reporting companies. As a result, some things may not be listed on all three reports, especially information about older accounts, accounts you've closed, or some of your older jobs or addresses.

This can cause inconsistencies among your credit reports. It's most important to make sure that the information that is listed on each report is correct.

What to do

- Start by getting free copies of your credit reports. Use the "Requesting your free credit reports" tool to find out how.
- Read through each credit report carefully, using the checklist as a guide for what errors to look for.

A step further

If you find any mistakes on your credit reports, you should dispute them. Use the "Disputing errors on your credit reports" tool to get started.

If you're worried about fraud or identity theft and want to monitor your credit, you can get six free credit reports every 12 months from Equifax through December 31, 2026 at AnnualCreditReport.com or by calling Equifax directly at 866-349-5191. That's in addition to the one free annual Equifax report (plus your Experian and TransUnion reports) from AnnualCreditReport.com.

Monitor and find errors by Reviewing your credit reports regularly

1. Make a copy of this tool, one for each of the three nationwide credit reporting companies.
2. Use the checklist to review the five sections of each of your credit reports.
3. Write down any questions you have or incorrect information you need to dispute.
